

The IUC Working Papers aim at generating interest for and debate on the ideas and research outcomes presented at IUC-activities. The IUC Working Papers is an inclusive platform for sharing the output of IUC courses, conferences and research meetings. The initiative of IUC-course directors to nominate papers is welcomed. The papers should be of academic quality but can in terms of content vary along the whole range of disciplines and subjects addressed in IUC-courses and conferences. Only participants in IUC-activities (from advanced master students to senior staff) are eligible to publish (and submit) papers -or later versions of papers- that were presented during an IUC-activity.

🔍 Review

- There is a review procedure for IUC Working Papers under the responsibility of the scientific board of the IUC. The members of the scientific board are: Prof. Walther Zimmerli (Humboldt University Berlin), Prof. Kirstin Drenkhahn (Free University of Berlin), Prof. Snježana Prijić-Samaržija (University of Rijeka), Prof. Sigmund Grønmo (University of Bergen) and Prof. Wieger Bakker (Utrecht University).
- After a positive outcome of the review procedure the Working Paper will be published on the corresponding section of the IUC Website.
- IUC Course Directors can nominate papers from participants in their course. In that case, they are considered to be the first reviewer. When submitting the paper to the IUC they hand in a short-written evaluation of the paper using the review criteria listed below. A second review will take place under the responsibility of the scientific board of the IUC.
- IUC participants can submit papers for publication in the IUC-working papers series. In that case two reviewers will look at the working paper under the responsibility of the IUC scientific committee.
- During the academic year, in general the review procedure will take not more than 8 weeks.

✉ Submission

Authors are required to submit two Word-documents and send both these documents by email to the IUC-secretariat (iuc@iuc.hr) mentioning 'IUC Working Paper submission' in the subject.
